A Special Shave Cream—It's Not a Soap, Needs No Brush!

Dailyshaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men must shave every day.

To meet this condition. Williams has now developed GLIDER-a special cream for daily shavers. With no soap hase, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. No brush. No lather. Notsticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich cream. It won't dry on your face. Applied with the fingers, it quickly softens each whisker. A protective layer is formed over which your razor glides. Off comes each hair at the base without scraping. Like a cold cream, Glider helps keep your skin smooth all day. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations,

The British Navy's

The Royal Navy of Britain has a tremendous task to-day... It fights against the ships, the submarines and the air forces of Germany and Italy; and attacks their military bases. It enforces a rigid blockade of those countries. It keeps open and defends the sea-roads by which supplies reach Britain. And it alone makes possible communication between Latin America and the British Isles.

In this war, the Royal Navy has once again proved the tremendous weight of a British sea-power in battle and in economic

But the Royal Navy has a wider field of activity, and one that affects the peace and progress of all lands.

Every day, aboard the ships of the Bri--tish-Navy,-the_chaplain reads a prayer written in the seventeenth century.

That prayer describes the Navy as: "A safeguard . . . a security for such as pass on the seas on their lawful occasions."

This the Royal Navy is indeed. Its work for the security of the seas never ceases. Gunboats and sloops are always in the Red Sea and Persian Gulf to prevent traffic in slaves, and the running of arms and ammunition. Little white gunboats far inland up the rivers in China have frequently been called upon to protect lives and property, to rescue and succour the victims of floods, and to assist relief work during epidemics.

An incident that occurred some years ago in China comes to my mind. Seamen and marines had to be landed at an up-river port, and for hours an armed guard of steel-helmeted men stood shoulder to shoulder facing a frenzied mob that shricked at them and bombarded them with missiles.

If a single man had lost his temper and struck out there would have been a ghastly outbreak of violence. The situation was saved by the steadiness and good humour of the men. They were wonderful. They smiled at the mob. They even shared their rations with the children.

The Navy has a long record of relief work in hurricanes, earthquakes, and other disasters. It has frequently protected civilians during revolutions and riots. It has, in innumerable instances, given aid to ships in distress ships of all nations.

Before the war, the cruisers "Exeter" and "Ajax", which afterwards_became_famous_in. the battle of the River Plate, took an active part in relief work after an earthquake in Chile. They transported many refugees, and carried in their aircraft the vaccines necessary to save life.

Every year, normally, one of His Majesty's ships visits the lonely island of Tristan da Cunha, in the South Atlantic, to land stores and supplies for the inhabitants. This visit is one of the island's few links with the outer world.

During the Civil War in Spain, British men-of-war, large and small, were converted into floating hostels for hundreds of retugees. Officers, including Commanders, gave up their cabins to women and children. Decks were screened off to provide living quarters. Meals were served in relays with seamen acting as cooks and waiters.

Bluejackets nursed the babies of tired mothers, entertained the older children on improvised swings and merrygo-rounds, and gave them sweets and chocolates from the canteen.

An officer in a destroyer showed his inventive genius by manufacturing bables' feeding bottles out of sodabottles. This ship water missed, by a matter of minutes, having her complement increased by one. The baby was born ashore.

In some ships, officers and men camped out as best they provide the refugees with shelter: This meant discomparticularly in the destroyers, of Hollywood as tenth.

where space is very cramped. But the sailors didn't care. It was their job. The Navy. proud to do what it could, and adaptable as ever, entered thoroughly into the spirit of the thing, and seems somehow to have enjoyed itself.

I have read many letters of gratitude addressed to the British Admiralty by foreign Governments. I have read. too, many touching tributes from private people of various nationalities who have been helped. A phrase that occurs very frequently is: "I shall be grateful to the British Navy all my life."

One man wrote: "I was truly proud of the quiet efficiency, and still more of the kindly spirit, with which the task of evacuating us was carried out . . . I could only marvel at the unfailing kindness and consideration of each and every sailor to all the refugees, especially to the old, the feeble, and the children. It was simply wonderful."

An old Irish lady, rescued from a dangerous situation, and given the captain's cabin in a destroyer, wrote: "May God and Our Lady bless and protect the British Navy for evermore."

Another grateful person wrote that the sailors themrelves had not been ashore for weeks and were themselves short of food; but went shorter still so that the rescued could be fed.

Another_wrote: "We shall_ bless the British Navy, which again has proved its right to he called an Ambassador of Peace."

Throughout its long history, the Royal Navy of Britain has been a safeguard for those in distress or affiction.

It is clear proof of the power and adaptability of the British Navy that it can turn from these tasks of peace to the stern duties of a great war, and perform them with all the vigour and courage of a fighting race.

To-day the British Navy is in battle or on the watch on all the seas of the world. It is a vital element in Britain's plan for victory. But it should be remembered that, when there is no war job to b" done, the Royal Navy is still busy, every day, in the interests of humanity and the safety of the sens.

LEND & LEASE BILL

THE approval of the Lend and Lease Bill by the House of Representatives is a triumph for the Roosevelt Administration, not only politically, but in its accurate estimate of the present-day temper of American public opinion. Determined, but unavailing was the Republican opposition to the main features of the measure, but the House's approval was assured when amendment after amendment was defeated. The Bill has yet to obtain The acquiescence of the Senate, where a closer vote is likely, but its final approval by Congress is now virtually assured.

The gesture is symbolic of the new and closer relations obtaining between Britain and the United States; it gives practical expression to a real and deep sympathy for the cause of the British Empire against the machinations of the Axis Powers which seek to destroy all those institutions which are held so dear by Americans.

The moral effect of this willingness by the United States to extend all aid possible will be tremendous and beneficial to Britain, where millions of souls calmly awalt the full might of the German war machine. The knowledge that a large proportion of the vast resources of the U.S. are to be made available to Britain will not only provide a wonderful stimulus to that nation which now has her back to the wall, but a fearsome and discouraging obstacle to Nazi aspirations.

A striking feature of the debates and committee forums in Washington on the Lend and Lease measure has been the highly intelligent and constructive arguments advanced by both sides. There are sound, logical grounds for some of the apprehensions advanced by the opposition. The truth is that the United States is taking a most important, and virtually irrevocable step; its repercussions are destined to be fel throughout the world. It places the United States as the officially acknowledged enemy of the Axis; it is a challenge to them which, perhaps, they will find themselves unable to ignore. The Bill may well shape the future history of the entire world; its implications are comprehensive to a degree which must impress Japan as much as they will Germany and Italy. When the measure becomes law, the world generally will know that, so far as .. the United States is concerned, the die has been cast. The thought is both exhibitate ing and sobering.

Fenton's Splendid Feat Against R. Engineers

The rain on Saturday last washed out all the cricket and most of my notes. I was not aware of it, but apparently a scratch team of K.C.C. which managed to total nine members in all, took on the Sappers on Sunday. The only two people who did anything for K.C.C. were Anderson (82 not out) and Mackay (67).

Their 8-wickets produced 193 runs. The best bowling figures returned for the Sappers were those of Denyer which read 9.7-1-45-5. The Sappers' batting however went to bits. Tropp got 22 not out. Ratcliffe 12, and the whole side were out for 62.

Tripoli Raid

CAIRO, Fcb. 10 (Reuter).-Attacks on Calato and Maritza in the island of Rhodes and a successful night raid on Tripoli are recorded in to-day's communique from the R.A.F. head-quarters in the Middle East.

The communique says that on the night of February 8-9, aerodromes at Calato and Maritza were raided by bombers. Bombs were dropped on a number of alrevaft dispersed on the landing ground at the former place, causing a heavy explosion and two large fires, believed to be enemy, aireraft burning.

Aircraft of the Fleet Air Arm on I the same night carried out a success-. ful raid on Tripoli, bombs falling on the scapiane station where a hangar was set on fire.

East Africa

In Italian East Africa, continued support was given to the army offensive. Keren was raided repeatedly.

At Asmara, South African fighters encountered a number of Italian planes, one enemy machine being rhot down and several others badly damaged. Meanwhile R.A.F. bombers raided the town of Asmara.

This was decided at a northwestern police court when Wiliiam Philpott, a garage proprietor, was charged with failing to report the finding of a German flying helmet and removing it from where an enemy aircraft was brought down.

Mr J. P. Moorley, prosecuting, sald he believed it was the first case in which the rights of the Crown to receive booty or spoils of war had been disputed.

. Philpoit, he sald, was seen with the helmet, after a German plane had been brought down, and he declared:
"The pilot took off his helmet and gave it to me, saying, "Souvenir." Philpott expressed his willingness to hand over the helmet, which he regarded as a gift.

The chairman, Mr R. Farmer, dismissing the charge, said the case falled because the helmet was a gift from the pilot.

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A Special Shave Cream-It's Not a Soap, Needs No Brush!

Dailyshaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed GLIDER-n special cream for daily shavers. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. No brush, Nolather, Notaticky orgressy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich cream. It won't dry on your face. Applied with the fingers, it quickly softens each whisker. A protective layer is formed over which your razor glides. Ou comes each hair at the base without scraping. Like a cold cream, Glider helps keep your skin smooth all day. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

British

The Royal Navy of Britain has a tremendouse task to-day. It fights against the ships, the submarines and the air forces of tary bases. It enforces keeps open and dewhich supplies reach Britain. And it alone makes possible communication between Latin America and the British Isles.

In this war, the Royal Navy has once. again proved the tremendous weight of a British sea-power in battle and in economic

But the Royal Navy has a wider field of activity, and one that affects the peace and progress of all lands.

Every day, aboard the ships of the Bri--tish-Navy,-the_chaplain reads a prayer written in the seventeenth century.

That prayer describes the Navy as: "A safeguard . . . a security for such as pass on the seas on their lawful occasions."

This the Royal Navy is indeed. Its work for the security of the seas never ceases. Gunboats and sloops are always in the Red Sea and Persian Gulf to prevent traffic in slaves, and the running of arms ammunition. Little white gunboats far inland up the rivers in China have frequently been called upon to protect lives and property, to rescue and succour the victims of floods, and to assist relief work during epidemics.

incident that occurred some years ago in China comes to my mind. Seamen and marines had to be landed at an up-river port, and for hours an armed guard of steel-helmeted men stood shoulder to shoulder facing a frenzied mob that shrieked at them and bombarded them with missiles.

If a single man had lost his temper and struck out theré would have been a ghastly outbreak of violence. The situation was saved by the steadiness and good humour of the men. They were wonderful. They smiled at the mob. They even shared their rations with the children.

The Navy has a long record of relief work in hurricanes, earthquakes, and other disasters. It has frequently protected civilians during revolutions and riots. It has, in innumerable instances, given aid to ships in distress ships of all nations.

Before the war, the cruisers "Exeter" and "Ajax", which _afterwards_became_famous_in the battle of the River Plate, took an active part in relief work after an carthquake in Chile. They transported many refugees, and carried in their aircraft the vaccines necessary to save life.

Every year, normally, one of His Majesty's ships visits the lonely island of Tristan da Cunha, in the South Atlantic, to land stores and supplies for the inhabitants. This visit is one of the island's few links with the outer world.

During the Civil War in Spain. British men-of-war, large and small, were converted into floating hostels for hundreds of refugees. Officers, including Commanders, gave up their cabins to women and children. Decks were screened off to provide living quarters. Meals were served in relays with seamen acting as cooks and waiters.

Bluejackets nursed the babies of tired mothers, entertained the older children on improvised swings and merrygo-rounds, and gave them sweets and chocolates from the canteen.

An officer in a destroyer showed his inventive genius by manufacturing feeding, bottles out of sodawater bottles. This ship missed, by a matter of minutes, having her complement increased by one. The baby, was born ashore...

In some ships, officers and men camped out as best they could for weeks at a time to provide the refugees with shelter. This meant discomfort, to say the least of it, particularly in the destroyers, of Hollywood as tenth, where space is very cramped. But the sailors didn't care. It was their job. The Navy, proud to do what it could, and adaptable as ever, entered thoroughly into the spirit of the thing, and seems somehow to have enjoyed itself.

I have read many letters of gratitude addressed to the British Admiralty by foreign Governments. I have read, too, many touching tributes from private people of various nationalities who have been helped. A phrase that occurs very frequently is: "I shall be grateful to the British Navy all my life."

One man wrote: "I was truly proud of the quiet efficiency, and still more of the kindly spirit, with which the task of evacuating us was carried out . . . I could only marvel at the unfailing kindness and consideration of each and every sailor to all the refugees, especially to the old, the feeble, and the children. It was simply wonderful."

An old Irish lady, rescued from a dangerous situation, and given the captain's cabin in a destroyer, wrote: "May God and Our Lady bless and protect the British Navy for evermore."

Another grateful person wrote that the sailors themselves had not been ashore for weeks and were themselves short of food; but went shorter still so that the rescued could be fed.

Another wrote: "We shall bless the British Navy, which again has proved its right to be called an Ambassador of

Throughout its long history, the Royal Navy of Britain has been a safeguard for those in distress or affiction.

It is clear proof of the power and adaptability of the British Navy that it can turn from these tasks of peace to the stern duties of a great war, and perform them with all the vigour and courage of a fighting rlice.

To-day the British Navy is in battle or on the watch on all the seas of the world. It is a vital element in Britain's plan for victory. But it should be remembered that, when there is no war job to be done, the Royal Navy is still busy, every day, in the interests of humanity and the safety of the seas.

LEND, & LEASE BILL

THE approval of the Lend and Lease Bill by the House of Representatives is a triumph for the Roosevelt Administration, not only politically, but in its accurate estiminte of the present-day temper of American public opinion. Determined, but unavailing was the Republican opposition to the main features of the measure, but the House's approval was assured when amendment after amendment was -defeated. The Bill has yet to obtain the acquiescence of the Senate, where a closer vote is likely, but its final approval by Congress is now virtually assured.

The gesture is symbolic of the new and closer relations obtaining between Britain and the United States; it gives practical expression to a real and deep sympathy for the cause of the British Empire against the machinations of the Axis Powers which seek to destroy all those institutions which are held so dear by Americans.

The moral effect of this willingness by the United States to extend all nid possible will be tremendous and beneficial to Britain, where millions of souls calmly await the full might of the German war machine. The knowledge that a large proportion of the vast resources of the U.S. are to be made available to Britain will not only provide a wonderful stimulus to that nation which now has her back to the wall, but a fearsome and discouraging obstacle to Nazi aspirations.

A striking feature of the debates i and committee forums in Washington on the Lend and Lease measure has been the highly intelligent and constructive arguments advanced by both sides. There are sound, logical grounds for some of the apprehensions advanced by the opposition. The truth is that the United States is taking a most important, and virtually irrevocable slep; its repercussions are destined to be felt throughout the world. It places the United States as the officially acknowledged enemy of the Axis; it is a challenge to them which, perhaps, they will find themselves unable to Ignore. The Bill may well shape the future history of the entire world; its implications are comprehensive to a degree which must impress Japan as much as they will Germany and Ilaly. When the measure becomes law, the world generally will the lifeless shells that had shone -I'll make inquiries." know that so far as the United States is concerned, the die has been cast. The thought is both exhibarating and sobering.

HOW TO RALLY AFTER ILLNESS

It's an uphill business getting your strength back after serious illness or operation. There's only one thing that can help you-nourishment, plenty of it. But your stomach is as thought and aight of food.

Doctors save the situation time and again by giving the convalescent patient Horlicks. It is food in a form which places no strain on the ex-hausted digestion—and its pleasant flavour restores the juded appetits. Horlicks is a complete balanced food, containing all the elements needed for filling out the wasted body with healthy flesh and repairing tattered nerves,

Thousands of people owe their quick recovery to the abundant vitality and energy that Borlicks has poured into their veins. Get Horlicks from your store to-day. Always keep a supply in the house, .

Fenton's Splendid Feat Against R. Engineers

The rain on Saturday last washed out all the cricket and most of my notes. I was not aware of it, but apparently a scratch team of K.C.C. which managed to total nine members in all, took on the Sappers on Sunday. The only two people who did anything for K.C.C. were Anderson (82 not out) and Mackay (67).

Their 8 wickets produced 193 runs. The best bowling figures returned for the Sappers were those of Denyer which read 9.7-1-45-5. The Sappers' batting however went to bits. Tropp got 22 not out. Ratcliffe 12, and the whole side were out for 62.

One Time Ogpu Chief Found Dead In U.S.A.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter). — General Krivitsky, stated to have once been Secret Police Chief in Soviet Russia, has been found shot dead, according to Louis Waldman, an attorney. The General is said to have been going under the name of Samuel Ginsberg. Waldman said that he obtained the information from detectives, who told him that Krivitsky shot himself, but the attorney did not believe this.

Krivitsky, he said, had been cooperating with the United States Federation Investigation Bureau. He came to the United States several years ago and later visited England, but returned to America last October. Krivitsky gave evidence on October 19, 1939, before the Congressional Committee on un-American activities. He said that he broke with Stalin because he refused to take an active part in the purge of the Communist SHIUHING, Feb. 10 (Central) News).-Fighting has broken out again on the Chungshan-Sunwui border regions.

About 1,000 Japanese and puppel troops from Chungshan made a forced landing at Yuchkong, Namao and other points under protective acrial and naval bombardment on January 6. They encountered stubborn Chinese resistance and withdrew towards night!

The following morning they made an attack at Pakao, and Wongyeungshan in the district of Chungshan, but met with equally strong resistance and suffered heavy causalties. Failing to make any headway, they sent a column in the afternoon to ettack Wangshan in the Sunwur district.

Tripoli Raid

CAIRO, Feb. 10 (Reuter).—Attacks on Calato and Maritza in the Island of Rhodes and a successful night raid on Tripoll are recorded in to-day's communique from the R.A.F. head-quarters in the Middle East.

The communique says that on the night of February 8-9, aerodromes at Calato and Maritza were raided by bombers. Bombs were dropped on a number of aircraft dispersed on the landing ground at the former place, causing a heavy explosion and two large fires, believed to be enemy aireraft burning.

Aircraft of the Fleet Air Arm on the same night carried out a successful raid on Tripoli, bombs falling on the scaplane station where a hangar was set on fire. East Africa

In Italian East Africa, continued support was given to the army offensive. Keren was raided repeatedly. Much damage was caused to stores and motor transport. At Asmara, South African fighters encountered a number of Italian planes, one enemy machine being shot down and several others badly damaged. Meanwhile R.A.F. bom--berg-raided-the-town-of-Asmara, When enemy aircraft attacked the

EARLY CLIMAX IN BALKANS SITUATION

Special to the "Telegraph"

LONDON, FEB. 10 (UP).-BRITAIN'S RUPTURE IN DIPLO-MATIC RELATIONS WITH RUMANIA CAME IMMEDIATELY AFTER MR CHURCHILL'S STRONG WARNING TO BULGARIA, AND POINTS TO AN EARLY CLIMAX OF THE SITUATION IN THE BALKANS.

BALKAN DIPLOMATS SAY THEY WOULD NOT BE SURPRISED IF RUMANIA SOON FINDS HERSELF AT WAR WITH BRITAIN AND THAT BULGARIA, IF SHE CONNIVES WITH GERMANY, MAY ALSO DISCOVER HERSELF IN THAT POSITION.

These observers doubted whether the British bombing of Rumanian oilfields was likely to be made without a declaration of war. There are no signs that that is imminent, although the possibility cannot be ruled out in view of the British statement that Rumania is being used by Germany as a base for the furtherance of her military plans.

BRITISH PLANES BOMB TRIPOLI

Active In Eritrea, Albania

Special to the "Telegraph"

CAIRO, Feb. 10 (UP).—Planes from the Fleet Air Arm made successful raids on Tripoli during the night of February 8-9. On the same night, the R.A.F. bombed and machinegunned the aerodrome at Calato. The R.A.F., supporting the army's offensive in Italian East Africa, repeatedly raided Keren and caused much damage to depots and motor transports.

Amazing Story Battle Benghazi Told By Bergonzoli

> By Richard MacMillan SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH" SOLLUCH, NEAR TRI-POLITIAN FRONTIER, Feb. 10 (UP).—General Bergonzoli told me to-night the story of the battle of Benghazi in which he was captured with between 29,000 and 30,000 men after > the greatest tank battle in the desert offensive. What made the battle especially dramatic was the hordes of women and children refugees who were unwilling spectators to the carnage of their Italian menfolk who were mown down by British guns before their horrified eyes,

> General Bergonzoli was surprised when the British armoured brigades appeared on his line of retreat towards Tripoli, as the Italian force had been given no indication that British armoured units were near.

The Italians never believed that the British were capable of a journey from the interior in time to intercept

The Italians allowed a group of refugees to leave Benghazi at the last minute, mainly children of the families of officers and soldiers to join in the routed enemy columns which comprised several groups of tanks ahead of one group on the left flank, and another on the right between the fleeing columns and the

Astonishing Scenes

According to the General, the women and children became panicstricken and he sought to join them, but as the fight developed fiercely, the women and children fled from the battlefield which was strewn with perambulators, push carts, toys, household goods and chattels,

The meeting with General Bergonzoli occurred after an eventful day in Benghazi. # SHANGHAI POLICE AGREEMENT SIGNED

Gambling, vice and other forms of lawlessness in the Shanghal Badlands have been a constant cause for concern to the Shanghai Municipal Council. Recently, after protracted negotiation between the Council and the Greater Shanghai Municipal Government, an agreement was signed providing for the establishment of a joint police force in the territory to deal with the problem. Mr W. J. Keswick signed as Chairman of the Council. He is shown above at the left at the ceremony, which took place at the Klangwan Civic Centre. His arm is still in a sling, after he was shot during the sensational ratepayers' meeting by a Japanese. In the picture also is Mr R. T. Bryan Jnr., Municipal Advocate. At right, Mayor Chen preparing to sign the document. Below, Mr Keswick, Mayor Chen and Mr G. Godfrey Phillips, Secretary of the Council, toast the success of the new arrangement. Mr Keswick arrived in Hongkong this week. (Photos by Mike Nenchew).

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A Special Shave Cream—It's Not a Soap, Needs No Brushl

Dallyshavingicavesmanymen'sfaces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men must shave every day.

To meet this condition. Williams has now developed GLIDER-a special cream for daily shavers. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. No brush, Nolather. Notaticky orgrensy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich cream. It won't dry on your face. Applied with the fingers, it quickly softens each whisker. A protective layer is formed over which your razon glides. Off comes each hair at the base without acraping. Like a cold cream, Glider helps keep your skin smooth all day. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations,

The British Navy's

The Royal Navy of Britain has a tremendous task to-day. It fights against the ships, the submarines and the air forces of and attacks their military bases. It enforces a rigid blockade of those countries. It keeps open and defends the sea-roads by which supplies reach Britain. And it alone makes possible communication between Latin America and the British Isles.

In this war, the Royal Navy has once again proved the tremendous weight of a British sea-power in battle and in economic war.

But the Royal Navy has a wider field of activity, and one that affects the peace and progress of all lands.

Every day, aboard the ships of the British Navy, the chaplain reads a prayer written in the seventeenth century.

That prayer describes the Navy as: "A safeguard . . . a security for such as pass on the seas on their lawful occasions."

This the Royal Navy is indeed. Its work for the security of the seas never ceases. Gunboats and sloops are always in the Red Sea and Persian Gulf to prevent traffic in slaves, and the running of arms and ammunition. Little white gunboats far inland up the rivers in China have frequently been called upon to protect lives and property, to rescue and succour the victims of floods, and to assist relief work during epidemics.

An incident that occurred some years ago in China comes to my mind. Seamen and marines had to be landed at an up-river port, and for hours an armed guard of steel-helmeted men stood shoulder to shoulder facing a frenzied mob that shrieked at them and bombarded them with missiles.

If a single man had lost his temper and struck out there would have been a > ghastly outbreak of violence. The situation was saved by the steadiness and good humour of the men. They were wonderful. They smiled at the mob. They even shared their rations with the children.

The Navy has a long record of relief work in hurricanes, earthquakes, and other disasters. It has frequently proteeted civilians during revolutions and riots. It has, in innumerable instances, given aid to ships in distress ships of all nations.

Before the war, the cruisers "Exeter" and "Ajax", which afterwards became famous in the battle of the River Plate. took an active part in relief work after an earthquake in Chile. They transported many refugees, and carried in their aircraft the vaccines necessary to save life.

Every year, normally, one of His Majesty's ships visits the lonely island of Tristan da Cunha, in the South Atlantic, to land stores and supplies for the inhabitants. This visit is one of the island's few links with the outer world.

During the Civil War in Spain. British men-of-war, large and small, were converted into floating hostels for hundreds of refugees. · Officers, including Commanders, gave, up their cabins to women and children. Decks were screened off to provide living quarters. Meals were served in relays with seamen acting as cooks and waiters.

Bluejackets nursed the babies of tired mothers, entertained the older children on improvised swings and merrygo-rounds, and gave themsweets and chocolates from the canteen.

An officer in a destroyer showed his inventive genius by manufacturing babies' feeding bottles out of sodabottles.- This ship missed, by a matter of minutes, having her complement increased by one. The baby was born ashore.

In some ships, officers and men camped out as best they could for weeks at a time to provide the refugees with shelter. This meant discomfort, to say the least of it, particularly in the destroyers, of Hollywood as tenth.

where space is very cramped. But the sailors didn't care. It was their job. The Navy, proud to do what it could, and adaptable as ever, entered thoroughly into the spirit of the thing, and seems somehow to have enjoyed itself...

I have read many letters of gratitude addressed to the British Admiralty by foreign Governments. I have read, too, many touching tributes from private people of various nationalities who have been helped. A phrase that occurs very frequently is: "I shall begrateful to the British Navy all my life."

One man wrote': "I was truly proud of the quiet efficiency, and still more of the kindly spirit, with which the task of evacuating us was carried out . . . I could only marvel at the unfailing kindness and consideration of each and every sailor to all the refugees, especially to the old, the feeble, and the children. It was simply wonderful."

An old Irish lady, rescued from a dangerous situation, and given the captain's cabin in a destroyer, wrote: "May God and Our Lady bless and protect the British Navy for evermore,"

Another grateful person wrote that the sailors themselves had not been ashore for weeks and were themselves short of food; but went shorter still so that the rescued could be fed.

Another wrote: "We shall bless the British Navy, which again has proved its right to be called an Ambassador of

Throughout its long history, the Royal Navy of Britain has been a safeguard for those in distress or affiction.

It is clear proof of the power and adaptability of the British Navy that it can turn from these tasks of peace to the stern duties of a great war, and perform them with all the vigour and courage of a fighting race.

To-day the British Navy is in battle or on the watch on all the sons of the world. It, is a vital element in Britain's plan for victory. But it should be remembered that, when there is no war job to be done, the Royal Navy is still busy, every day, in the interests of humanity and the safely of the seas.

LEND & LEASE BILL

THE approval of the Lend and Lease Bill by the House of Representatives is a triumph for the Roosevelt Administration, not only politically, but in its necurate estimate of the present-day temper of American public opinion, Determined, but unavailing was the Republican opposition do the main features of the measure, but the House's approval was assured when amendment after amendment was defeated. The Bill has yet to obtain The liequiescence of the Senate, where a closer voté is likely, but its final approval by Congress is now virtually assured.

The gesture is symbolic of the new and closer relations obtaining between Britain and the United States; It gives practical expression to a real and deep sympathy for the cause of the British Empire against the muchinations of the Axis Powers which seek to destroy all those institutions which are held so dear by Americans.

The moral effect of this willingness by the United States to extend all aid possible will be tremendous and beneficial to Britain, where millions of souls calmly await the full might of the German war, machine. The knowledge that a large proportion of the vast resources of the U.S. are to be made available to Britain will not only provide a wonderful stimulus to that nation which now has her back to the wall, but a fearsome and discouraging obstacle to Nazi aspirations.

A striking feature of the debates and committee forums in Washington on the Lend and Lease measure has been the highly intelligent and constructive arguments advanced by both sides. There are sound, logical grounds for some of the apprehensions advanced by the epposition. The truth is that the United States is taking a most important, and virtually irrevocable step; its repercussions are destined to be felt throughout the world. It places the United States as the officially acknowledged enemy of the Axis; it is a challenge to them which, perhaps, they will find themselves unable to ignore. The Bill may well shape the future history of the entire world; its implications are comprehensive to a degree which must impress Japan as much as they will Germany and Italy.. When the measure becomes law, the world generally will know that, so far as the United States is concerned, the die has been cast. The thought is both exhibitat-ing and sobering.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (UP).—Unconfirmed advices from Zurich assert that thousands of German troops, wearing civilian clothing, have appeared in Bulgaria, thereby apparently substantiating Mr Churchill's assertion of Nazi infiltration, which is greater than is generally known.

Berlin Reaction STOCKHOLM, Feb. 10 (Reuter).-Mr Churchill's reference to Bulgaria in a broadcast on Sunday has caused a sensation in Berlin according to a newspaper correspondent in Berlin who says that competent quarters there deny that German troops have entered Bulgarian territory and say there is not a single soldier or airman there.

It's an uphili business getting your strength back after serious illness or operation. There's only one thing that can help you-nourlshment, plenty of it. But your stomach is as weak as your legs and you hate the thought and sight of food.

Doctors save the situation time and again by giving the convalescent patient Horlicks. It is food in a form which places no strain on the exhausted digestion—and its pleasant flavour restores the jaded appetity, Horlicks is a complete balanced food, containing all the elements needed for filling out the wasted body with healthy flesh and repairing tattered

Thousands of people owe their quick recovery to the abundant vitality and energy that Borlicks has poured into their veins. Get Horlicks from your store to-day. Always keep a supply in the house.

Fenton's Splendid Feat Against R. Engineers

The rain on Saturday last washed out all the cricket and most of my notes. I was not aware of it, but apparently a scratch team of K.C.C. which managed to total nine members in all, took on the Sappers on Sunday. The only two people who did anything for K.C.C. were Anderson (82 not out) and Mackay (67).

Their 8 wickets produced 193 runs. The best bowling figures returned for the Sappers were those of Denyer which read 9.7-1-45-5. The Sappers' batting however went to bits. Tropp got 22 not out. Ratcliffe 12, and the whole side were out for 62. .

Nicki Wan Wins Oriental Heavyweight Boxing Title

MANILA, Feb. 3.-Nicki Wan, light heavyweight champion of China, last Saturday evening literally slugged Young Schmeling, local heavyweight champion, into submission to annex the heavyweight championship of the Orient. The bout ended suddenly in the middle of the 8th round when Schmeling, after taking a terrific pummeling, quit cold and told Referee Manuel Eloriaga he had had enough, thereby giving the bout to the Chinese by a technical knockout.

One Time Ogpu Chief Found Dead In U.S.A.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (Reuter). - General Krivitsky, stated to have once been Secret Police Chief in Soviet Russia, has been found shot dead, according to Louis Waldman, an

, attorney. The General is said to have been going under the name of | Samuel Ginsberg. Waldman Exchange At said that he obtained the information from detectives, who told him that Krivitsky shot himself, but the attorney did not believe this.

Krivitsky, he said, had been cooperating with the United States Federation Investigation Bureau. He came to the United States several years ago and later visited England, but returned to America last October. Krivitsky gave evidence on October 19, 1939, before the Congressional Committee on un-American activities. He said that he broke with Stalin because he refused to take an active part in the purge of the Communist Party in 1930 and 1937.
